@fleafeet:

I met @TenzinTsendue at a @tibetcouncil meeting many years ago when he visited Australia. Over the past few weeks, I've been following his 3500km walk along India's border with #Tibet, connecting with those living close to the homeland he cannot visit. Well done, Tsendue-la!

@frances_hui:

I am not sure which one is more incorrect & insensitive succumbing to a racist, genocidal regime, named the #CCP, or not educating yourself abt #Tibet & #China before you write to a student community that "Tibet is a part of China." @DukeEngineering@DukeU, shame on you.

In Tibet, the Nechung Oracle and other oracles on occasion, have also played principal roles assisting governmental decision-making and providing intelligence on pressing matters of state, and perhaps most importantly aid in the provision of security for the 14th Dalai Lama of Tibet.
